Discoverer I's Radios Heard

Signals Indicate New Satellite in Orbit
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force believes its Discoverer I rocket may have gone into some kind of orbit—and is simply having trouble raising its voice enough to let the world know for sure.
Authorities say tracking stations have picked up "sporadic signals" tending "to confirm that an orbit has been attained." Further checks will be made, they say, to try to pin down the uncommunicative rocket.
Discoverer I, the first space vehicle aimed into an orbit which would carry it over both the North and South poles, was launched Saturday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, 170 miles north of Los Angeles.
A Navy ship 900 miles south of the base received faint signals from the bullet-shaped missile shortly after it was fired. Then, for hours, there was nothing.
Officials speculated something may have gone wrong with the radio equipment in the 1,300-pound projectile.
Sunday night the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division reported: "additional study of data received for a nine-minute period after lift-off supports the accuracy of preliminary information about launch trajectory and orbit injection. Tracking stations have since picked up random signals on the frequency of the Discoverer's radio beacon, which approximates the predicted position of the satellite."
The Air Force said the information at hand suggests Discoverer may be circling the earth about once every 96 minutes. It said the preliminary data indicate the rocket is about 146 miles from the earth at the point of its closest approach and 558 miles away at the farthest point.
The frequency at which Discoverer's radio was supposed to broadcast has been kept secret. This prompted criticism from some scientists, who say that withholding such information may have prevented trackers from locating the rocket.

ROCKETS AIM AT ORBITS IN SPACE—The Army's Juno II rocket (left) takes on fuel at Cape Canaveral, Fla., as it was readied for an attempt to put a 13-pound payload (top) into orbit around the sun. Stripes on the gold-washed fiberglass outer cone are designed to regulate temperature by controlling reflection and absorbing solar heat. First stage of the 76-foot Juno II is a Jupiter. At right, Discoverer I, a two-stage vehicle, was fired at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. The 1,300 pound satellite was first fired from the West Coast.

Moon Rocketeers Work on Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Army missilemen went back to work on their lunar probe rocket today after failing Sunday night to launch a satellite past the moon and into a solar orbit.
The 76-foot rocket, Juno II, stood poised in floodlights for a half hour and the firing crew had progressed to within minutes of target time when the shot was postponed. No reason was given officially, but it was learned that a power failure caused the decision to scrub.
Another effort could be made tonight, Tuesday or Wednesday while the moon is in favorable proximity to earth, 221,000 miles away. After that, a month's delay would be necessary until the moon again swings into the correct position.
All that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would say about the postponement was that it was due to "technical difficulties."

The launching—similar to the first Army space probe Dec. 6—will be another attempt to fire a gold-plated payload more than a half million miles above the earth to become an artificial planet of the sun. The Soviets say they turned the trick with a 1 ton Lunik satellite Jan. 4.
As in the first flight, the cone-shaped Pioneer probe will carry special instruments to measure two radiation bands that hang over the earth starting at about 1,000 miles.
The Army crewmen, working on a precise timetable, missed their

Meigs-Gallia Aides Probe Baby's Death

POMEROY, Ohio (AP)—Authorities in Meigs and Gallia counties are awaiting results of an autopsy in the death of a 4-year-old Cleveland boy.
The youngster, Joseph A. Sottosanti, was dead on arrival at a Gallop hospital Saturday. Dr. Donald E. Warehime, Gallia county coroner, said he received reports the child was severely beaten and ordered the body sent to Columbus for the autopsy.
A Meigs County sheriff's deputy here confirmed that a 22-year-old Middleport man was being held in connection with the case but declined to identify him. Dr. Warehime said the child's mother, Mrs. Irene Sottosanti, brought him to Middleport recently to visit the man in custody.

Red Cross Flood Relief Nears End

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Red Cross' flood relief program in five states recently hit by ram-paging water is nearing its end.
Since the program began in January, the organization has spent $1,717,036 in providing emergency food, shelter and clothing; and to repair, refurbish and rebuild flood-damaged homes in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New York and West Virginia.

World News In Brief

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Arch-bishop Makarios got a triumphal welcome home from more than 150,000 Greek Cypriots Sunday after three years in exile. He called on them to cooperate with the island's Turkish minority in the days of freedom that lie ahead.

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A burglar kicked in a $500 plate glass window here Sunday night to steal a penny—a rare 1909 Lincoln head valued by collectors at $50.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Film comedian Mischa Auer, 53, was reported in "improved condition" today at a Pasadena hospital. He was hospitalized after suffering a mild heart attack Friday.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eric Blore, the "gentleman's gentleman" in two decades of Hollywood films, died Sunday night of a heart attack. He was 71.

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Some 125 persons, evacuated Sunday after a freight train carrying chemicals from the Atomic Energy Commission was derailed, were allowed to return to their homes in nearby Geneva early today.

ALGIERS (AP)—Algerian Nationalist rebels struck with increased strength over the week-end. The rebels ambushed a military supply convoy, blew up two trains, attacked a town with mortar fire and kidnapped 10 members of an Italian immigrant family.
The French claimed that 87 rebels were killed in operations.

LONDON (AP)—A second atomic station is pumping electricity into Britain's national power network.

The new plant at Chapel Cross, Scotland, is a twin of the Calder Hall station operating since October 1956.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Harrison Dillard, 35, former Olympic hurdle and sprint champion, today was appointed sports director of radio station WABQ, scheduled to begin operations here in about a week.
Preston Tuschman, president of the new station, said it is "aiming at the Negro market" in the Cleveland area.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Roads are wet, with some slippery spots north and east of a line marked by Cleveland, Chardon and Painesville, the State Highway Department reported today.

Roads also are reported damp in the Columbus area, where there was a heavy early morning fog. Elsewhere highways are normal, including the Ohio Turnpike.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The Fire Prevention Bureau said today careless smoking probably was the cause of the $225,000 fire that damaged three business places Thursday.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—Gulf Oil Co. refinery workers today ended a 33-day walkout set off by an attempt to reclassify some employees.

Company and spokesmen for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union in a joint statement said the agreement ending the strike allows Gulf more flexibility in fixing job classifications but no impairment of traditional craft lines.

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP)—Raymond T. Luce, 57, has left the farm his family worked for 259 years.

With none of his five children inclined to take up farming, Luce, a potato grower, leased his 60 acres and put his machinery on the auction block during the week-end.

He said industrialized agriculture forced him to either expand or give up the land that was settled by his family in nearby Jamesport in 1700.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ernest J. Cole appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court today from conviction on charges of violating an Akron drunk driving ordinance under which municipal judges agreed to deny probation.

Cole claimed in his appeal that an Akron newspaper, at a meeting with judges, obtained their promise to deny probation consideration for all ordinance violators.

Philippine Navy Holds 5 Russian Trawlers
MANILA (AP)—The Philippine navy was ordered to usher five Soviet trawlers to a naval base today while authorities investigate their appearance off Luzon Island.

Mrs. Anna L. Sensenbrenner Dies at 83

Series of Strokes Fells Mother of Columbus Mayor

Mrs. Anna Sensenbrenner, 83, of 306 E. Mound St., mother of Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, died at 4:05 a. m. Sunday in Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Sensenbrenner had been ill for some time. She had been in Berger Hospital for the last five days. Death was due to a series of strokes. Mayor Sensenbrenner was at her bedside when she died.

She was the last of her generation of 11 children. She was born Jan. 7, 1876 in Hocking County, the daughter of Hiram Gard and Catherine Tracy Lama. She was married to Edward Sensenbrenner in 1901.

Her husband operated a watch and jewelry shop here for more than 50 years. He preceded Mrs. Sensenbrenner in death.

Survivors are two sons, Mayor Maynard Sensenbrenner, Columbus, and the Rev. Marion A., Tampa, Fla., and a daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Emmons, Columbus; 11 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

SERVICES will be at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Trinity Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Carl Zehner officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery. Her grandsons will be pallbearers.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7-9 p. m. today, 3-9 p. m. Tuesday and at the church from noon until 1 p. m. Wednesday.

Memorial donations to the Trinity Lutheran Church Memorial Fund would be appreciated by the family.

2 California Youngsters Are Kidnaped

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two Southern California mothers had reason to cry today.

The son of each was kidnaped. The tears of Mrs. Wayne Murray, of Venice, were joyful. Her boy, Wayne Jr., 7, was rescued by officers from a former mental patient.

But the second mother, Ruth Flores, collapsed in a "hysterical condition" from anxiety and weariness. Her infant son, kidnaped early Saturday, is still missing.

Police in Bishop, Calif., acting on a tip from a Los Angeles bus ticket seller, found young Wayne Murray in a cheap hotel room with William Harris Elwell, Elwell, 28, was held for Venice police on a kidnapping charge.

Mrs. Murray had been under sedatives to relieve hysteria since her son was missed Saturday. She is expecting another child.

Meanwhile, hundreds of police and sheriff's officers pressed a search for the twin tot of the widowed Mrs. Flores, 35, of Ontario.

The baby, Eric Leon Flores, eight weeks old, has been missing since early Saturday when he and Mrs. Flores' other five children were left with a babysitter known to Mrs. Flores only as Ann Williams.

Mrs. Flores said the short, stocky woman came to her home, said she was a social worker, and offered to sit Saturday night while the widow went out with a friend.

When Mrs. Flores returned the woman was missing—and so was the tot.

Bob Hope Concerned About His Eyesight

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"From now on," says Bob Hope, "I'm doing whatever the doctor tells me. I've got too many places to see."

Eye trouble threatens to come between Hope and the places he wants to see. He will fly to New York to get liner today to see a Columbia University specialist about the ailment.

Hope said physicians have told his wife he may lose full vision in the eye unless he gets help.

Local Electric Workers Strike

Pickets paced in front of the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. office on Main St. and at the company's substation on W. Mound St. today.

However, electric service to Pickaway County's 4,600 C & SO power customers was as yet unaffected.

Locally, 10 men are not working as a result of a strike by Local 832 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Nine of the 10 are on strike and the other has refused to cross the picket line.

Eldred Parsons, local division manager, said that 10 office and supervisory persons are working and will be able to maintain service here. He said the strikers include line crew (construction and maintenance), customer service, storekeeping and custodial personnel.

diminished today as the strike moved into its second day. About 1,300 C & SO employees in 57 installations, including Circleville, left their posts early Sunday after negotiations for a new contract broke off. The old contract expired at midnight Saturday.

The union is asking a 10-cent increase for linemen in the top classification, in addition to a 6 per cent across-the-board increase for all employees, including the top linemen. It turned down a company offer of a 3½ per cent increase.

William Hamler, business agent for Local 1466, said the linemen work with more hazardous voltage today than they did in 1944 when the last evaluation of jobs was made.

Present pay scales range from $1.69 to $3.28 an hour.

Hall Gets 1-20 Years in OSP For 1st Degree Manslaughter

Gaylord Steven Hall, 34, W. Main St. Saturday morning in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus, for a term of one to 20 years for first degree manslaughter.

Hall was convicted Wednesday for his participation in the fatal beating of Roy Thompson, 63, rear 327 Walnut St., on Dec. 4, 1958.

Hall was arrested by City Police and bound to the County Grand Jury under $10,000 bond by City Municipal Judge Sterling Lamb for second degree murder.

He was indicted by the January term of the Grand Jury for first degree manslaughter, a lesser charge. A petit jury found Hall guilty in 45 minutes after hearing the evidence and closing arguments in the day and a half trial.

HALL WAS on parole from the OSP after serving a sentence for breaking and entering. He will spend longer than one year in the "Pen".

Hall's attorney, Richard W. Penn, 114 N. Court St., made an appeal for a new trial, claiming irregularities. The appeal was argued before Judge William Ammer, who overruled Penn's motion and made sentence.

4-H Banquet To Honor 107 Club Advisors

The 107 advisors who conduct 4-H programs in Pickaway County will be honored at a banquet at 6:45 p. m. today in the First Methodist Church.

Two 4-H alumni will get awards for outstanding work as advisors or in their profession. The names will be announced at the banquet.

Also to be honored are those advisors who have participated in the 4-H program for periods of five or 10 years.

About two and a quarter million boys and girls in rural, urban, and suburban areas throughout the United States this week are observing National 4-H Club Week. These young people, between 10 and 21 years old, are members of the Nation's 90,700 4-H clubs.

Pickaway County's 800 plus 4-H club members will take part in the week's activities, says Clarence J. Cunningham, County Extension Agent, 4-H.

THEY WILL share with other 4-Hers in recognizing "4-H alumni"—the 20,000,000 men and women throughout the country who have participated in the 4-H program in the past 57 years since the movement started, and who are now benefiting from this training and experience.

Nationally, 4-H Club Week will be highlighted in Washington, D.C., when six members chosen as delegates will present the annual 4-H club "Report to the Nation". The report will summarize in stories and pictures outstanding 4-H accomplishments and pay tribute to the thousands of former 4-Hers whose success and attainments now exemplify the high ideals of 4-H in achievement, leadership, and good citizenship.

The six club members while in the Nation's Capital expect to review the report with President Eisenhower at the White House. They also plan to visit Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, C. M. Ferguson, administrator of the Federal Extension Service, and various senators and members of Congress on Capitol Hill.

Russia Prefers Summit Parley

Vienna or Geneva Suggested as Site

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today gave grudging acceptance to a foreign ministers' conference on Germany.

In notes to the Western powers, the Soviet Union said it prefers a summit meeting of heads of government, but is prepared to agree to a foreign ministers' meeting.

Moscow suggested Vienna or Geneva as a site for a foreign ministers' session starting in April, and said it should not last longer than two or three months.

The notes suggested that Poland and Czechoslovakia and East and West Germany attend, along with representatives of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The full text of the notes has not yet been formally released. But informants disclosed its highlights while British Prime Minister Macmillan and Soviet Premier Khrushchev were meeting in the Kremlin. They talked for almost two hours.

The Russians did not make a foreign ministers' meeting conditional on any subsequent summit meeting.

This was made clear by a full examination of the note in the original Russian.

Soviet insistence on a summit conference had been expected ever since the West made its proposal. Khrushchev in his speech last Tuesday made clear he did not think a foreign ministers' conference on Germany would serve any useful purpose, and that the issue of West Berlin must be discussed by the heads of government.

The Foreign Ministry told the ambassadors it would publish the note Tuesday.

The U.S. government has been the chief opponent of a summit conference. The American position is that unless the foreign ministers work out an agreement beforehand, a summit meeting will unduly raise public hopes but will come to nothing.

But Prime Minister Macmillan was reported determined, in his visits last month to President Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle, to insist that a parley with Khrushchev himself was the only way that might lift the Soviet threat to Berlin.

The Soviets had originally proposed, on Jan. 10, that a 28-nation conference be held to conclude separate peace treaties with West and East Germany as part of the Soviet plan to end the Allied occupation of West Berlin.

The West on Feb. 16 rejected the peace conference proposal and suggested instead a foreign ministers' meeting to discuss the whole issue of German reunification. The West also restated its determination not to be driven out of Berlin, saying it could not accept the Soviets' unilateral ending of the World War II occupation.

Khrushchev in his speech last week also stuck to the long-standing Soviet position on German reunification, that it must be negotiated by the two German governments and not by the Big Four. West Germany, with full Allied backing, refuses to recognize the East German regime to the extent of holding political negotiations with it.

Macmillan told Soviet leaders in Leningrad Sunday night that his (Continued on Page Two)

Uncle Sam Faces Money Trouble in Paying Off Debt

Your country's national debt is a massive 286 billion dollars and headed higher. Is this of personal concern to you? It is. Getting the money to pay the interest and obtaining the billions for day-to-day governmental expenses has become an acute problem for Uncle Sam. Your pocketbook and your living are affected.

This paper today offers the first in a series of four stories outlining the money troubles now besetting the government. They have been written by Frank Cormier, Associated Press specialist on the U.S. Treasury. They tell clearly and informatively how these vast financial moves concern you.

You will find the first article of the series on Page 5.

Ohio Budget To Be Open For Questions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle submits his state operating budget this week to the Democrat-controlled Legislature.

Lawmakers, returning from weekend adjournment, face an unprecedented opportunity to question the governor about his tax program to finance budget needs. Indications were that budget totals would hit new highs.

DiSalle said he might seek permission to defend his budget at a question-and-answer session of the Legislature if Cabinet members backstop him. He called on department heads to express their views on the unusual proposal in preparation for a possible grilling.

Describing the budget message as the most important in two decades, DiSalle said explanations might be in order for some items.

"We would have to make allowances for loaded questions," he observed. "In some instances, we might have to say we don't know the answers but that would be better than 'no comment'."

Both houses scheduled a handful of bills for a floor vote tonight. Interest centered on a House vote on a proposal to give women the same pay as men for substantially equal work. The law would apply to employers of 10 or more.

Enforcement would repose in the State Department of Industrial Relations.

As amended by an Industry and Labor Sub-Committee, the bill would permit women workers to seek damages of double the amount lost in wages as a result of discrimination against them.

Speaker James A. Lant (D-Fairfield) said the House probably would vote during the week on one of two proposals that jammed committee rooms during hearings. One measure would allow quail hunting on state-controlled lands. The other would abolish motor scooter licenses for 14 and 15-year-olds.

4-H Banquet To Honor 107 Club Advisors

The 107 advisors who conduct 4-H programs in Pickaway County will be honored at a banquet at 6:45 p. m. today in the First Methodist Church.

Two 4-H alumni will get awards for outstanding work as advisors or in their profession. The names will be announced at the banquet.

Also to be honored are those advisors who have participated in the 4-H program for periods of five or 10 years.

About two and a quarter million boys and girls in rural, urban, and suburban areas throughout the United States this week are observing National 4-H Club Week. These young people, between 10 and 21 years old, are members of the Nation's 90,700 4-H clubs.

Pickaway County's 800 plus 4-H club members will take part in the week's activities, says Clarence J. Cunningham, County Extension Agent, 4-H.

THEY WILL share with other 4-H'ers in recognizing "4-H alumni"—the 20,000,000 men and women throughout the country who have participated in the 4-H program in the past 57 years since the movement started, and who are now benefiting from this training and experience.

Nationally, 4-H Club Week will be highlighted in Washington, D.C., when six members chosen as delegates will present the annual 4-H club "Report to the Nation". The report will summarize in stories and pictures outstanding 4-H accomplishments and pay tribute to the thousands of former 4-H'ers whose success and attainments now exemplify the high ideals of 4-H in achievement, leadership, and good citizenship.

The six club members while in the Nation's Capital expect to review the report with President Eisenhower at the White House. They also plan to visit Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, C. M. Ferguson, administrator of the Federal Extension Service, and various senators and members of Congress on Capitol Hill.

Russia Prefers Summit Parley

Vienna or Geneva
Suggested as Site

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today gave grudging acceptance to a foreign ministers' conference on Germany.

In notes to the Western powers, the Soviet Union said it prefers a summit meeting of heads of government, but is prepared to agree to a foreign ministers' meeting.

Moscow suggested Vienna or Geneva as a site for a foreign ministers' session starting in April, and said it should not last longer than two or three months.

The notes suggested that Poland and Czechoslovakia and East and West Germany attend, along with representatives of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The full text of the notes has not yet been formally released. But informants disclosed its highlights while British Prime Minister Macmillan and Soviet Premier Khrushchev were meeting in the Kremlin. They talked for almost two hours.

The Russians did not make a foreign ministers' meeting conditional on any subsequent summit meeting.

This was made clear by a full examination of the note in the original Russian.

Soviet insistence on a summit conference had been expected ever since the West made its proposal. Khrushchev in his speech last Tuesday made clear he did not think a foreign ministers' conference on Germany would serve any useful purpose, and that the issue of West Berlin must be discussed by the heads of government.

The Foreign Ministry told the ambassadors it would publish the note Tuesday.

The U.S. government has been the chief opponent of a summit conference. The American position is that unless the foreign ministers work out an agreement beforehand, a summit meeting will unduly raise public hopes but will come to nothing.

But Prime Minister Macmillan was reported determined, in his visits last month to President Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle, to insist that a parley with Khrushchev himself was the only way that might lift the Soviet threat to Berlin.

The Soviets had originally proposed, on Jan. 10, that a 28-nation conference be held to conclude separate peace treaties with West and East Germany as part of the Soviet plan to end the Allied occupation of West Berlin.

The West on Feb. 16 rejected the peace conference proposal and suggested instead a foreign ministers' meeting to discuss the whole issue of German reunification. The West also restated its determination not to be driven out of Berlin, saying it could not accept the Soviets' unilateral ending of the World War II occupation.

Khrushchev in his speech last week also stuck to the long-standing Soviet position on German reunification, that it must be negotiated by the two German governments and not by the Big Four. West Germany, with full Allied backing, refuses to recognize the East German regime to the extent of holding political negotiations with it.

Macmillan told Soviet leaders in Leningrad Sunday night that his

Uncle Sam Faces Money Trouble in Paying Off Debt

Your country's national debt is a massive 286 billion dollars and headed higher. Is this of personal concern to you? It is. Getting the money to pay the interest and obtaining the billions for day-to-day governmental expenses has become an acute problem for Uncle Sam. Your pocketbook and your living are affected.

This paper today offers the first in a series of four stories outlining the money troubles now besetting the government. They have been written by Frank Cormier, Associated Press specialist on the U.S. Treasury. They tell clearly and informatively how these vast financial moves concern you.

You will find the first article of the series on Page 5.

Red Cross Bloodmobile Here Tomorrow; Quota 150 Pints

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its second visit of the year to Pickaway County tomorrow from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. at the Methodist Church.

The Bloodmobile hopes to reach its quota of 150 pints. During 1958, the county ranked 25th among the 27 counties of the Columbus Regional Blood Center in the amount of blood contributed.

The county donated 294 pints of blood during the first six months of last year, while residents requiring blood used 491 pints. This 197 pint deficit was made up from other counties in the area. The average county blood donation during the months of October, November and December of 1958 was approximately 135 persons. Pickaway County's average is in the 60's.

THE LOCAL Red Cross Blood committee only asks that the county carry its load in the Red Cross Columbus blood bank. Some day other counties may fall down on donations and no blood will be available to carry Pickaway County.

Some statistics about the American Red Cross's blood program during its fiscal year of 1957-58 shows 2,291,300 pints of blood collected.

A total of 865,300 units of gamma globulin, 25,800 units of serum albumin and 1,850 units of fibrinogen were distributed without charge. Total cost of the Blood Program for the year was $13,002,400.

The year 1958 marked the tenth anniversary of the Red Cross Blood Program, which evolved directly from the enormous success achieved by Red Cross in collecting blood for the armed forces in World War II.

Red Cross and the nation's medical authorities agreed that this superb new way to save and protect life should be available to the American people in time of peace as well as in war.

In January 1948 the first regional blood center opened its doors in Rochester, New York. Now, a decade later, 52 regional programs are in operation, with 1,500 chapters participating and serving 3,900 hospitals across the nation.

ABOUT 40 PERCENT of the blood used annually in medical practice is provided through Red Cross. In the 10 years since the beginning of the program Red Cross has collected for civilian and military use in excess of 22,500,000 donations of blood.

The medical uses of blood are legion. It is essential in complications of childbirth and in surgery. It is the first requirement of accident victims suffering loss of blood. It is a must for many leukemia patients and patients with severe forms of anemia.

From outdated blood (it can be preserved as whole blood for only 21 days) the Red Cross processes blood plasma. From the plasma are derived gamma globulin, to modify or prevent measles and hepatitis; serum albumin, for treating shock, burns, and kidney diseases; and fibrinogen, to control bleeding.

Over the 10-year history of the Blood Program, vast quantities of these blood products, currently valued commercially at more than $60,000,000, have been distributed in every state without charge to doctors and hospitals for their patients.

Continuing research sponsored by Red Cross in the nature and properties of blood indicates the possibility of further lifesaving uses for blood and hitherto unknown derivatives. One of the latter is properdin, currently being used in cancer research.

Blood collected through Red Cross is the gift of volunteer donors. Therefore, no charge is ever made for the product itself to hospitals or patients. However, the steadily increasing cost of this highly technical and expensive program has made necessary the financial participation of hospitals in meeting some of the costs involved in collecting and distributing blood.

Hamilton Bank Robbed of $30,000
HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A branch of the First National Bank and Trust Co. of Hamilton was robbed of $30,000 this morning.

James Acre, bank auditor, announced that much was taken by a man who escaped in an automobile he had parked in front of the place. The robber was described as wearing a cap and zipper jacket.

He first asked Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, and employee, to change a $20 bill, then told her "this is a stickup." She gave him at least $12,000 in $20 bills, she said.

An insurance company representative arrived at the bank a few minutes after the holdup, ready to write a check for the money which was stolen.

3 Legion Posts Lose Ohio Charters charters of three American Legion posts were revoked by the Legion's executive committee Sunday at its spring meeting here.

Charters revoked for insufficient membership were Linwood-Sheridan No. 579, Cincinnati; Mentor-On-Lake No. 664, and Bataan Post No. 509, Cleveland. The posts have to file an appeal.

A trophy named for the late Rev. Fr. John E. Duffy of New London was presented to the Ohio Legion by the fifth district in north-central Ohio. The trophy will be awarded in an annual contest to the post making the best score in the "back to God" movement.

Circleville Seniors Ready Class Play for March 5, 6

The senior class of Circleville High School will present, "The Curious Savage", Thursday and Friday in the school auditorium.

The play, by John Patrick, is under the direction of Robert Ransom and student director, Sheila Bass. Play rehearsals have been going on for several weeks.

Committee chairman for the play are Connie Butcher, props; Sue Barnes, tickets; Sally Montgomery, make-up; Phyllis Brown, programs; Linda Emerine, publicity and Phyllis McCoard, business manager.

The play revolves around an elderly lady, Anna Stiers, who has been left ten million dollars by her husband, and wants to make the best use of it, in spite of the efforts of her grown-up stepchildren, Sandra Gibbs, Gary Winner and Ted Wellington, to get their hands on it.

THE STEPCHILDREN, knowing that the widow's wealth is now in negotiable securities, and seeing they cannot get hold of it, send her to a "rest home" hoping to "bring her to her senses."

In the "home", she meets various people, Carol McFarland, Nellie Peart, Mike Clark and John Dunlap, men and women who just cannot adjust themselves to life.

In getting to know them, she realizes she will find happiness with them and the life she spends there is gracious, amusing and useful, while her new friends are interested in her and not her money.

Throughout the quick action of the comedy, the self-seeking stepchildren are driven to distraction by their vain efforts to browbeat the elderly lady.

Throughout the play, officials of the home, Barbara Sieverts and Doug McCoard, manage to control the situation.

The dominate mood is high comedy. Each character is clearly portrayed, and the audience should be left with a feeling that the neglected virtues of kindness and affection have not been lost in an often greedy and dishonest world.

State Ward Killed In Rifle Accident
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 21-year-old state ward was shot and killed Sunday night in a university district boarding house. Authorities described it as accidental.

The victim was Roy Clifford, a Columbus State School inmate who had been living in a house operated for state wards by Mrs. Roy Scoles. Police said he was wounded fatally by another state ward, George Drakus, 23. Drakus had purchased a .22 caliber rifle, against rules, and it discharged accidentally when he took it out of a locker to show Clifford.

Both Clifford and Drakus were admitted from Cleveland.

talks with Khrushchev, while yielding no immediate results, "will be of great assistance in the international discussions which must lie ahead."

"I say that these discussions must lie ahead because I firmly believe that the dangerous situation with which we may be faced cannot be resolved without negotiations," Macmillan declared.

A foreign ambassador in Moscow said Khrushchev had told him he is not pessimistic about the talks with Macmillan. But he said the Soviet premier still insists there must be a peace treaty with both East and West Germany and liquidation of the Western occupation of West Berlin.

The envoy said Khrushchev seemed surprised at the West's shock at his speech in the Kremlin last week in which the Soviet premier brushed aside the Western proposal for a foreign ministers conference and once more insisted the occupation of West Berlin must end.

"It was only an electioneering speech," the ambassador quoted Khrushchev. "I know it has been suggested that I should not have made the speech until Mr. Macmillan left. But the election of legislature members in nine of the Soviet republics was to be Sunday, before he left, and I owed it to my voters to explain what is happening."

Khrushchev also denied to the ambassador that the toothache which he said had prevented his accompanying Macmillan to Leningrad was a diplomatic illness.

The play revolves around an elderly lady, Anna Styers, who has been left ten million dollars by her husband, and wants to make the best use of it, in spite of the efforts of her grown-up stepchildren, Sandra Gibbs, Gary Winner and Ted Wellington, to get their hands on it.

THE STEPCHILDREN, knowing that the widow's wealth is now in negotiable securities, and seeing they cannot get hold of it, send her to a "rest home" hoping to "bring her to her senses."

In the "home", she meets various people, Carol McFarland, Nellie Peart, Mike Clark and John Dunlap, men and women who just cannot adjust themselves to life.

In getting to know them, she realizes she will find happiness with them and the life she spends there is gracious, amusing and useful, while her new friends are interested in her and not her money.

Throughout the quick action of the comedy, the self-seeking stepchildren are driven to distraction by their vain efforts to browbeat the elderly lady.

Throughout the play, officials of the home, Barbara Sieverts and Doug McCoard, manage to control the situation.

The dominate mood is high comedy. Each character is clearly portrayed, and the audience should be left with a feeling that the neglected virtues of kindness and affection have not been lost in an often greedy and dishonest world.

State Ward Killed In Rifle Accident

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 21-year-old state ward was shot and killed Sunday night in a university district boarding house. Authorities described it as accidental.

The victim was Roy Clifford, a Columbus State School inmate who had been living in a house operated for state wards by Mrs. Roy Scoles. Police said he was wounded fatally by another state ward, George Drakus, 23. Drakus had purchased a .22 caliber rifle, against rules, and it discharged accidentally when he took it out of a locker to show Clifford.

Both Clifford and Drakus were admitted from Cleveland.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why would a girl like Kathryn Grant be studying to become a registered nurse?

Her movie acting career is building all the time. She is married to Bing Crosby, so she doesn't need the security.

"But there are different kinds of security," she comments.

Kathy has long puzzled her fellow workers in the movie mills. She has all the attributes of a film star, as anyone can testify who has seen her in the scanty aerialist costume for "The Big Circus." Yet she refuses to play merely the role of screen actress — or the wife of a millionaire celebrity.

When she isn't working at a studio or at one of the Crosby vacation homes, she reports at 6:35 a.m. to a local hospital. She serves as a scrub technician in surgery until 2:30 in the afternoon, sometimes transfers to the maternity section to help out there.

As part of her long-range program to become a R.N., she is also taking a correspondence course from the University of California in physiology. "Oh, it's tough for me," she said. "All through school I avoided science courses. I got my degree (from U. of Texas) in fine arts, which is good for an actress but useless to a nurse. Now I have to learn a whole new vocabulary."

The reason for this drive? "I'm lucky to be in a line of work that is more like play. Bing always says when he makes a movie, he feels as if he's stealing money. I feel the same way. I can't imagine anything that can be more fun."

Farm Bureau Group Makes Study on New Resolutions

Members of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau discussed and studied six resolutions pertaining to the county during a meeting Friday night at the FB home on E. Main St.

The meeting was attended by 19 members, representing the Farm Bureau Board, the Women's Committee and the Legislative Committee.

Resolutions coming under discussion were: a study of telephone service in this area; adequate warning signs on roads in the county; a citation to the Women's Committee for its work on traffic safety; facilities for garbage disposal in townships here; and the proposal of the Farm Bureau backing a qualified health department in the county.

Farm Bureau President T. M. Glick served as chairman of the meeting. Dean Simmeral, assistant director of public affairs for the Ohio Farm Bureau, led the discussion on resolutions.

The group enjoyed slides of last year's session on resolutions. The pictures featured policy development progress within the Farm Bureau.

ings, enamels, bronzes, pottery, medieval church adornments or old manuscripts.

The building is Cincinnati's Art Museum. The trucks are bringing from New York what amounts to an entire art museum. Its value: Many millions of dollars.

But this is a private collection, owned and operated by Robert Lehman, a New York banker who inherited his father's taste for fine art.

Lehman finally decided to put just about all the art he owns on display here—just once. And just for three months, from May 2 to July 5.

Philip R. Adams, Cincinnati Museum director, said Lehman plans this to be "the only time he'll ever show the collection so completely in America—or anywhere."

"It's a complete museum in itself, a magnificent history of Western art from the 13th Century to the present, from Duccio to Matisse," Adams continued.

"The core of the collection is its paintings and drawings, but it draws strength from the medieval manuscripts and jewelry." Some of the paintings are archetypes—printed repeatedly in basic art textbooks. They include the Van Gogh self-portrait that has never been shown publicly in this country, El Greco's St. Jerome and Renoir's "Two Girls and a Piano."

Some parts of the collection have been exhibited, mainly in small quantities in eastern museums, some parts have never been shown publicly in this country.

The French government persuaded Lehman to send half his collection—about 14 million dollars worth—to Paris in 1957. Thousands queued up outside the Orangerie for a look.

Director Adams, with one eye cocked at the crowds that swarmed to the Paris showing, is rolling out the red carpet for the art treasure trove.

The museum stripped eight galleries in a wing and started painting, carpentering, polishing and refurbishing.

A bright young Frenchman was flown here to set up the galleries. The museum director has also been busy hiring guards for the exhibit, especially for the jewelry which will all be shown in one room.

Why did Lehman pick Cincinnati for his big show? Adams said the idea started several years ago in a conversation the banker had with old friends.

The French request intervened and the prospect of a showing here was postponed.

Adams said of Lehman: "His mother's family came from Cincinnati and I think he had a sort of sentimental idea to have his one great showing here. It was very generous of him."

Bell Telephone Labor Negotiations Continue

CLEVELAND (AP) — Representatives of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America meet again today to try to work out a wage agreement for 17,000 Bell employees in Ohio. CWA members continued to work without a contract, and there was no threat of a strike from union leaders. Negotiators talked into the morning hours Sunday after the contract expired at midnight Saturday. There was another brief meeting Sunday, but a company spokesman said "no decisions were made."

Lehman finally decided to put just about all the art he owns on display here—just once. And just for three months, from May 2 to July 5.

Philip R. Adams, Cincinnati Museum director, said Lehman plans this to be "the only time he'll ever show the collection so completely in America—or anywhere."

"It's a complete museum in itself, a magnificent history of Western art from the 13th Century to the present, from Duccio to Matisse," Adams continued.

"The core of the collection is its paintings and drawings, but it draws strength from the medieval manuscripts and jewelry."

Some of the paintings are archetypes—printed repeatedly in basic art textbooks. They include the Van Gogh self-portrait that has never been shown publicly in this country, El Greco's St. Jerome and Renoir's "Two Girls and a Piano."

Some parts of the collection have been exhibited, mainly in small quantities in eastern museums, some parts have never been shown publicly in this country.

The French government persuaded Lehman to send half his collection—about 14 million dollars worth—to Paris in 1957. Thousands queued up outside the Orangerie for a look.

Director Adams, with one eye cocked at the crowds that swarmed to the Paris showing, is rolling out the red carpet for the art treasure trove.

The museum stripped eight galleries in a wing and started painting, carpentering, polishing and refurbishing.

A bright young Frenchman was flown here to set up the galleries. The museum director has also been busy hiring guards for the exhibit, especially for the jewelry which will all be shown in one room.

Why did Lehman pick Cincinnati for his big show? Adams said the idea started several years ago in a conversation the banker had with old friends.

The French request intervened and the prospect of a showing here was postponed.

Adams said of Lehman: "His mother's family came from Cincinnati and I think he had a sort of sentimental idea to have his one great showing here. It was very generous of him."

Bell Telephone Labor Negotiations Continue

CLEVELAND (AP) — Representatives of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America meet again today to try to work out a wage agreement for 17,000 Bell employees in Ohio. CWA members continued to work without a contract, and there was no threat of a strike from union leaders. Negotiators talked into the morning hours Sunday after the contract expired at midnight Saturday. There was another brief meeting Sunday, but a company spokesman said "no decisions were made."

Councilmen Too Busy To Improve City Setup

SOUTH KINGSTON, R. I. (AP) —Six weeks ago the Town Council appointed a four-man committee to study means of improving the mechanics of municipal government. The committee has not yet held any meetings. Chairman Alexander J. McKenney said the four never seem to be in the same place at the same time.

No Profit in Inflation

After a trip around the world during which he studied the economies and fiscal systems of many nations, U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson said:

"If we ever reach the point where people believe that to speculate is safe but to save is to gamble, then we are indeed in trouble."

That remark follows observation of peoples in the grip of runaway inflation. Seeing their units of currency worth less from day to day, their urge is to get rid of their money as rapidly as possible. Some buy shares in risky enterprises, others hoard goods. All of them avoid the possession of deteriorating money as if it were noxious.

Money integrity has collapsed in many lands since World War I. Germany provided a severe lesson in that during the early 1920s when the government's printing presses couldn't match in volume of paper money the skyrocketing prices of goods and services.

Americans, caught in such a situation, would follow the traditional pattern of buying and hoarding goods, assuring themselves temporarily of enough to eat and wear. But it would be impossible to keep pace with the soaring costs of services which are so vital a part of the American way of life.

There have been some indications of flight from money in the U. S. in recent months. One example is the boom in corporation shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investment in such shares is, of course, legitimate. But when a great many Americans get into speculation chiefly because they have no confidence in their money, it is time to give close scrutiny to policies regulating government budgets as well as wages and prices.

In the final analysis there is no profit for anyone in inflation.

March a Medium Month

March is hardly one of the popular months. No poet ever sang, "Oh, what is so rare as a day in March?" Its weather is commonly described as "raw" and often lives up to the description. Its winds rake skins already rasped by weeks of winter cold, and its fickle weather brings sniffling and coughs even to those who had begun to boast they had escaped them.

Nevertheless, it is about time somebody put in a good word for March. Unlovely as it may seem, it has some merits.

After three weeks of bluster and threat, March suddenly lays spring on the doorstep. At this stage, to be sure, spring is not prettier than new-born babes, but surely March, which brings it forth, is entitled to take some parental pride in its later loveliness. March brings a few swelling buds and green sprouts and early birds—just when the sight of them is most welcome.

Easter comes in March, too. March 29 will not set a record for earliness—Easter may come as early as March 22. How the date of Easter is determined is a mystery to people who shake their heads and say they never were good at figures, anyway.

But it is simple enough. Figures aren't necessary. Just wait until spring starts. Then watch for a full moon. That will be the signal to buy Easter eggs and dyes and lay out Easter clothes.

Secretly, Fat Men Are Envied

NEW YORK (AP)—"Nobody loves a fat man."

So says an American proverb. But Santa Claus still is mighty popular.

The truth is not that nobody loves a fat man. The truth is that most people secretly envy the fat man.

To most of the world the fat man is still the symbol of wealth, plenty and security. In this country he has become a symbol of nonconformity and independence—a man with the courage to be different.

As a doctor observed recently, the campaign against fat in America is assuming the proportions of "a national neurosis." Show me a man who jeers at an overweight person and I'll show you a man who is discontented because being thin hasn't made him rich, famous or happy.

It just goes to show that a man whose only ambition is to become thin as a rail is likely to end up wooden-headed, too.

There are certain advantages in this civilization in having a well-rounded stomach, known in some admiring circles as "a corporation."

First and foremost, girls in the office may laugh at your paunch, but—bless the little dears!—they do love to reach out and pat it.

Anything else you buy on the installment plan—a house, a car, a refrigerator—can be taken from you if you don't meet the payments regularly. But there is no mortgage on a big tummy. It is yours alone—all yours—to have and to hold. You can take it with you, even unto the grave.

Skinny men who nap in their office swivel chairs wake up weary from having their arms dangle down like an ape's. But the fat man finds his stomach a comfortable arm rest.

A fat man can't be crowded. If somebody sits next to him in a bus seat, he merely takes a deep breath—and the other fellow falls off on the floor.

This world is full of people who stick their face into your face and try to peddle you something. The fat man is not at their mercy. He merely leans back, thrusts out his belly bumper—and pushes the fast talker out of hearing.

Bankers will lend more money on less collateral to a man with a tire around his waist. He looks like a bank vault to them—big and safe.

The fat man is more romantic—this may surprise the ladies!—and is the most attentive of lovers. As the old Scottish saying goes, "When the belly is full the mind is amongst the maids."

Cancer Doesn't Cripple Brain

The tremendous advances that have been made in the medical and bio-chemical sciences would be purposeless if life were not prolonged by them and if those who are stricken by serious illnesses could not continue to work.

The man who suffers what used to be called a fatal heart attack may have many years of life and work ahead of him, if he obeys dietary and other instructions. His major problem is to ration his time and to avoid fatigue. He need not give up his career to accomplish either.

Cancer is a bit more difficult, but the word, cancer, is a generic term for a number of related illnesses which may, in the not too distant future, become unrelated as the cause for some of them is fixed. However, many forms of cancer are handleable in certain stages and then one can go back to work.

I have had a coronary occlusion which is a fancy name for one form of heart attack, two other incidents, one of which was heart failure, and a cancer of one kidney. I am doing as much work as ever but my time is more carefully rationed and my diet is both small and unpleasant because it is saltless. But apart from a few inconveniences, such as not dancing after a day of hard work or walking my dog, Joe, or smoking big, black cigars, there is hardly a change of routine.

I give this personal testimony because Sen. Stuart Symington and Sen. Hubert Humphrey are making so sharp a point of appointing a new Secretary of State while John Foster Dulles is in the hospital taking treatment. His presence in the hospital interferes with his work less than if he were hunting quail or travelling about in distant parts of Missouri or Minnesota looking for votes. A telephone is at hand; he is no distance from the State Department; he can be in touch with all the world.

Of course, there are those who are so egotistic that if anything is wrong with them they become so preoccupied with themselves that they can think of nothing else. There are others who find work a form of therapy, who reject themselves as problems, even when they feel pain, and become so absorbed in their duties that their will to live is stimulated.

Some people are afraid to die and the scratch of a pin will send them into paroxysms of fear; there are others who fully believe in the life eternal and to whom life and death are staged in the fulfillment of the destiny of the soul.

John Foster Dulles, for instance, was raised as a Presbyterian, a faith to which he has been devoted. He surely believes that God's will be done which is a cornerstone of the Calvinistic philosophy which his father preached from the pulpit.

Such a man moves through life fearlessly and when he faces death, he does not flinch, for it will come when it comes and is one of the facts of eternal living that needs to be faced.

At this moment, Dulles is valuable to this nation. I do not say indispensable, because we should indeed be a weak and poor nation if any man were indispensable. However, Dulles is useful and needed and as long as his services are available, they are of value. Let them therefore be used up to the last moment.

A word needs to be said about Christian Herter, the Acting Secretary of State. He has some form of arthritis and uses canes or crutches or a wheel chair to get around. So what? Can he exercise his mind? Does he know what he is doing? Is he a man of ability and experience? Does his arthritis interfere with his ability to work?

It would seem that some Americans believe that an official of the United States must be physically perfect. George Washington had bad teeth and Franklin D. Roosevelt was a cripple. Maybe we ought to elect Jayne Mansfield's husband President because he is supposed to be physically perfect—I believe the peepholes call him a misce man.

It is brains, not muscles of the shank, that we need in the men who do our work. If we find our best brains in cripples, let us use what we find and not be too particular.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"PAINLESS DENTISTRY is simple as chopping down a tree," a dentist explained to a burly logger. "You breathe one whiff of laughing gas, and poof! the tooth is out."

"Any charge for that stuff?" asked the logger dubiously.

"Fifty cents extra," said the dentist.

"I guess the old way is best," decided the logger. "Go ahead, doc, and never mind how much it hurts."

"You're a brave man," said the dentist. "Open your mouth."

"Wait a minute," cried the logger. "It isn't me that's got the toothache; it's me wife."

"Spanking had one obvious advantage over modern child psychology," admits Dr. Raymond Winters. "It made the child smart!"

Expectant Mothers Need Rest

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Whether you expectant mothers realize it or not, it takes a good deal of energy to have a baby.

A nap in the afternoon, especially during the last few months of pregnancy, generally is a good idea. But whether you nap or not, it is during the night that you must really get most of the rest you need.

Now as the months progress sleeping in a comfortable position is going to become somewhat of a problem.

I suggest that you lie on either side—the side on which you normally sleep is preferable—with your knees bent. This permits the weight of the baby to rest on the bed.

Tug your pillow into a slanting position so that it supports not only your head but your breast and shoulder as well.

Rising from a prone position eventually becomes quite a problem. The easiest way is to roll far over on your side with the lower arm nearest the bed resting flat on the mattress.

Rest the palm of your other hand on the mattress with your arm bent at the elbow. Raise the upper part of your body slowly, shifting the weight easily to the palm of the lower hand.

It's a natural action and after you do it a couple of times it will, as a rule, be easy.

Sitting down also requires a little thought. For one thing, don't choose a big overstuffed chair.

Rather, select, a comfortable one but one that is straight.

Use your leg muscles to lower yourself into a chair by first putting one foot behind the other and then bending your knees.

Take it easy with your climbing, especially during the last month or so of your pregnancy. By using your foot and leg muscles you save those in your back which already are overworked.

As you climb the stairs place one foot firmly on the step, then shift your weight to that leg, straightening it out as you lift the other leg. Go slowly. Don't run. You will continue doing housework, of course, at least until the latter stages of your pregnancy, that means you will be reaching for food and various other items stored on shelves.

When you have to reach, stand as closely as possible to the shelf, take a deep breath and rise on your toes. Use both hands to grab the object in order to prevent any strain on your abdominal muscles.

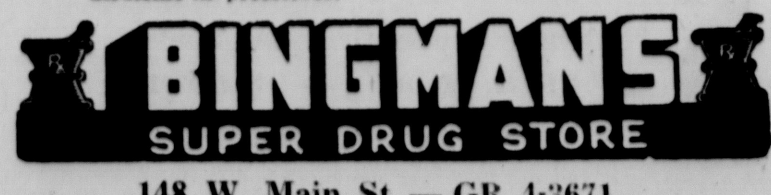

Questions and Answers
Miss L. H.: Can you tell me if there is something lacking in my diet, as I am terribly constipated and have to take laxatives all the time?

Answer: Much can be done to correct constipation by adjusting the diet. An ample amount of fluids, mildly laxative foods such as fruit juices, fruits and vegetables are helpful. An occasional dose of mineral oil may be necessary but laxatives as a regular thing should be avoided.

HICKORY CURED . . . ?

Folks used to think rheumatism could be cured by carrying a hickory nut. Today, we laugh at these old wives' remedies. We have so many reliable, quick-acting medications now. Medical discoveries in recent years have eliminated or greatly eased untold pain and suffering. But, remember—most medicines should be used only upon the advice of your physician. When you or a member of your family become ill, see your doctor first. Then come to us for the medicine he prescribes.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a simpler view than some of the guesses on why Premier Nikita Khrushchev gave British Prime Minister Macmillan a rude, fast brushoff when he went to Moscow to discuss the Berlin crisis.

The guesses range from thinking more effort to intimidate the West to saying he was impatient with Macmillan for not bringing solid solutions with him to Moscow.

The simpler view is that the realistic Khrushchev thinks strictly in terms of power and who has the muscle. He has shown he understands what power means by getting rid of all his rivals in the U.S.S.R. until now he stands supreme.

In this world the two most powerful forces are the Soviet Union and the United States. They dominate. Compared with them every other nation is a second-rate force, according to this view.

The two leaders of the two dominant powers are Khrushchev and President Eisenhower. Therefore, any talks except directly between Khrushchev and Eisenhower are a gumbating waste of time.

If this view is accepted, then that would explain why Khrushchev treated Macmillan like a messenger boy, dismissed the idea of a foreign ministers meeting as time-wasting, and aimed at what he has sought more than a year: a summit meeting with Eisenhower.

His meeting with Macmillan was in a way a kind of junior summit. He showed what he thought of Macmillan's importance by the way he treated the British prime minister, who was his guest.

Khrushchev has given the United States, Britain and France until May 27 to get their troops out of Berlin. If they don't, he has threatened to let the East German Communists block any supplies the Big Three attempt to send their Berlin troops.

Since this situation could lead to war, the Western Big Three proposed to seek a peaceful solution by talking. But their idea of who talks and Khrushchev's idea are not the same.

The Big Three—following what has become a kind of reflex action any time trouble arises—suggested that their three foreign ministers get together with the Soviet foreign minister to talk things over.

Such foreign ministers meetings in the past, as Khrushchev later emphasized, can be time-consuming. They can be and often have been, unproductive.

Before the Soviets could give an official answer to the proposal about foreign ministers, Macmillan decided to go to Moscow, see Khrushchev, and try to lay the groundwork for peaceful solutions.

But, since the Big Three were not yet willing to go beyond the idea of a ministers' meeting, Macmillan couldn't carry with him to Moscow any proposals that went further than that.

Khrushchev—during a recess in his conversations with Macmillan—made a farce of the talks by delivering, in a manner that seemed completely contemptuous of the prime minister, a speech on the very subject they were discussing: Berlin.

He warned that Western efforts to push military supplies through to West Berlin after May 27 could mean war; he mocked the idea of a foreign ministers meeting; and said only the heads of government have sufficient power to negotiate on the German problem.

Then Sunday, just before Macmillan set out for home, British sources said he was coming back determined to urge the United States and France into a summit meeting with Khrushchev. Macmillan long has favored such a meeting, but the official Allied stand has been for adequate advance preparation.

So Khrushchev moved one step closer to what he has wanted all along—a meeting with Eisenhower.

The last doubling of world population took about a century. At the current rate of growth, the next doubling will take place in about 40 years, reports the Population Reference Bureau.

His presence in the hospital interferes with his work less than if he were hunting quail or travelling about in distant parts of Missouri or Minnesota looking for votes. A telephone is at hand; he is no distance from the State Department; he can be in touch with all the world.

Of course, there are those who are so egotistic that if anything is wrong with them they become so preoccupied with themselves that they can think of nothing else. There are others who find work a form of therapy, who reject themselves as problems, even when they feel pain, and become so absorbed in their duties that their will to live is stimulated.

Some people are afraid to die and the scratch of a pin will send them into paroxysms of fear; there are others who fully believe in the life eternal and to whom life and death are staged in the fulfillment of the destiny of the soul.

John Foster Dulles, for instance, was raised as a Presbyterian, a faith to which he has been devoted. He surely believes that God's will be done which is a cornerstone of the Calvinistic philosophy which his father preached from the pulpit.

Such a man moves through life fearlessly and when he faces death, he does not flinch, for it will come when it comes and is one of the facts of eternal living that needs to be faced.

At this moment, Dulles is valuable to this nation. I do not say indispensable, because we should indeed be a weak and poor nation if any man were indispensable. However, Dulles is useful and needed and as long as his services are available, they are of value. Let them therefore be used up to the last moment.

A word needs to be said about Christian Herter, the Acting Secretary of State. He has some form of arthritis and uses canes or crutches or a wheel chair to get around. So what? Can he exercise his mind? Does he know what he is doing? Is he a man of ability and experience? Does his arthritis interfere with his ability to work?

It would seem that some Americans believe that an official of the United States must be physically perfect. George Washington had bad teeth and Franklin D. Roosevelt was a cripple. Maybe we ought to elect Jayne Mansfield's husband President because he is supposed to be physically perfect—I believe the peepholes call him a misle man.

It is brains, not muscles of the shank, that we need in the men who do our work. If we find our best brains in cripples, let us use what we find and not be too particular.

"PAINLESS DENTISTRY is simple as chopping down a tree," a dentist explained to a burly logger. "You breathe one whiff of laughing gas, and poof! the tooth is out."

"Any charge for that stuff?" asked the logger dubiously.

"Fifty cents extra," said the dentist.

"I guess the old way is best," decided the logger. "Go ahead, doc, and never mind how much it hurts."

"You're a brave man," said the dentist. "Open your mouth."

"Wait a minute," cried the logger. "It isn't me that's got the toothache; it's me wife."

Expectant Mothers Need Rest

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Whether you expectant mothers realize it or not, it takes a good deal of energy to have a baby.

A nap in the afternoon, especially during the last few months of pregnancy, generally is a good idea. But whether you nap or not, it is during the night that you must really get most of the rest you need.

Now as the months progress sleeping in a comfortable position is going to become somewhat of a problem.

I suggest that you lie on either side—the side on which you normally sleep is preferable—with your knees bent. This permits the weight of the baby to rest on the bed.

Tug your pillow into a slanting position so that it supports not only your head but your breast and shoulder as well.

Rising from a prone position eventually becomes quite a problem. The easiest way is to roll far over on your side with the lower arm nearest the bed resting flat on the mattress.

Rest the palm of your other hand on the mattress with your arm bent at the elbow. Raise the upper part of your body slowly, shifting the weight easily to the palm of the lower hand.

It's a natural action and after you do it a couple of times it will, as a rule, be easy.

Sitting down also requires a little thought. For one thing, don't choose a big overstuffed chair.

Rather, select a comfortable one but one that is straight.

Use your leg muscles to lower yourself into a chair by first putting one foot behind the other and then bending your knees.

Take it easy with your climbing, especially during the last month or so of your pregnancy. By using your foot and leg muscles you save those in your back which already are overworked.

As you climb the stairs place one foot firmly on the step, then shift your weight to that leg, straightening it out as you lift the other leg. Go slowly. Don't run.

You will continue doing housework, of course, at least until the latter stages of your pregnancy, that means you will be reaching for food and various other items stored on shelves.

When you have to reach, stand as closely as possible to the shelf, take a deep breath and rise on your toes. Use both hands to grab the object in order to prevent any strain on your abdominal muscles.

Questions and Answers

Miss L. H.: Can you tell me if there is something lacking in my diet, as I am terribly constipated and have to take laxatives all the time?

Answer: Much can be done to correct constipation by adjusting the diet. An ample amount of fluids, mildly laxative foods such as fruit juices, fruits and vegetables are helpful. An occasional dose of mineral oil may be necessary but laxatives as a regular thing should be avoided.

HICKORY CURED . . . ?

Folks used to think rheumatism could be cured by carrying a hickory nut. Today, we laugh at these old wives' remedies. We have so many reliable, quick-acting medications now. Medical discoveries in recent years have eliminated or greatly eased untold pain and suffering. But, remember—most medicines should be used only upon the advice of your physician. When you or a member of your family become ill, see your doctor first. Then come to us for the medicine he prescribes.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a simpler view than some of the guesses on why Premier Nikita Khrushchev gave British Prime Minister Macmillan a rude, fast brushoff when he went to Moscow to discuss the Berlin crisis.

The guesses range from thinking more effort to intimidate the West to saying he was impatient with Macmillan for not bringing solid solutions with him to Moscow.

The simpler view is that the realistic Khrushchev thinks strictly in terms of power and who has the muscle. He has shown he understands what power means by getting rid of all his rivals in the U.S.S.R. until now he stands supreme.

In this world the two most powerful forces are the Soviet Union and the United States. They dominate. Compared with them every other nation is a second-rate force, according to this view.

The two leaders of the two dominant powers are Khrushchev and President Eisenhower. Therefore, any talks except directly between Khrushchev and Eisenhower are a gumbating waste of time.

If this view is accepted, then that would explain why Khrushchev treated Macmillan like a messenger boy, dismissed the idea of a foreign ministers meeting as time-wasting, and aimed at what he has sought more than a year: a summit meeting with Eisenhower.

His meeting with Macmillan was in a way a kind of junior summit. He showed what he thought of Macmillan's importance by the way he treated the British prime minister, who was his guest.

Khrushchev has given the United States, Britain and France until May 27 to get their troops out of Berlin. If they don't, he has threatened to let the East German Communists block any supplies the Big Three attempt to send their Berlin troops.

Since this situation could lead to war, the Western Big Three proposed to seek a peaceful solution by talking. But their idea of who talks and Khrushchev's idea are not the same.

The Big Three—following what has become a kind of reflex action any time trouble arises—suggested that their three foreign ministers get together with the Soviet foreign minister to talk things over.

Such foreign ministers meetings in the past, as Khrushchev later emphasized, can be time-consuming. They can be and often have been, unproductive.

Before the Soviets could give an official answer to the proposal about foreign ministers, Macmillan decided to go to Moscow, see Khrushchev, and try to lay the groundwork for peaceful solutions.

But, since the Big Three were not yet willing to go beyond the idea of a ministers' meeting, Macmillan couldn't carry with him to Moscow any proposals that went further than that.

Khrushchev—during a recess in his conversations with Macmillan—made a farce of the talks by delivering, in a manner that seemed completely contemptuous of the prime minister, a speech on the very subject they were discussing: Berlin.

He warned that Western efforts to push military supplies through to West Berlin after May 27 could mean war; he mocked the idea of a foreign ministers meeting; and said only the heads of government have sufficient power to negotiate on the German problem.

Then Sunday, just before Macmillan set out for home, British sources said he was coming back determined to urge the United States and France into a summit meeting with Khrushchev. Macmillan long has favored such a meeting, but the official Allied stand has been for adequate advance preparation.

So Khrushchev moved one step closer to what he has wanted all along—a meeting with Eisenhower.

Uncle Sam Has Money Problem

Borrowing Operating Cash Is Difficult for Nation

Editor's Note: There is growing concern in Washington about the Treasury's difficulties in managing a record national debt of 286 billion dollars. This is the first of four articles assessing the situation.

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam is having trouble borrowing the billions he needs to stay in business.

No one doubts he'll get the money he requires, one way or another. The question is: what price will he have to pay — in terms of dollars, economic difficulty and possible inflation?

If the price gets high enough, a financial crisis could develop. Treasury officials say they're optimistic but their concern is apparent.

The government's plight was dramatized last month when nine billion dollars of loans supplied by private lenders came due. Like any harried debtor, Uncle Sam asked his creditors to renew the loans. As encouragement, he offered them new and more generous terms.

The lenders — banks, corporations and individuals — had a choice. They could renew their loans for one year and collect 3 1/2 per cent interest or renew for three years and get 4 per cent.

Historically, these interest rates are very high. In some cases, they were more than double the rate paid on the original loans.

Nevertheless, two billion dollars of loans were not renewed. The lenders wanted their money back.

Uncle Sam had expected a sizable demand for cash — but not this much. He didn't have the funds to pay off the maturing loans and was forced to make an emergency borrowing.

This meant he was able to get all the credit he needed only on the second attempt. He had expected to get enough the first time. It was a sobering experience for the world's best credit risk.

What went wrong? There can be no precise answer since the result represented decisions by scores of lenders who didn't put their reasons in writing.

Treasury officials are inclined to blame "technical factors." However, they concede some of the responsibility belongs to these other — more ominous — factors:

1. Fear of rising interest rates in a period of economic recovery.

2. Fear of inflation.

If an investor believes inflation is the "wave of the future," he doesn't want to tie up his money in a government I.O.U. — a Treasury security — that would depreciate in value. He's more apt to invest in common stocks or real estate, hoping their value will keep pace with inflation.

All interest rates tend to rise in periods of inflation. Lenders need more incentive to make a loan since they'll be paid back in dollars of diminishing value.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board has been restricting red ink — in effect, holding down the supply of money available for lending. The board has done this in hopes of preventing an inflation of credit which could inflate the whole economy.

Both these developments have put upward pressure on interest rates. Adding to that pressure, many investors have decided inflation is coming and so have declined to lend.

It is in this environment that the Treasury is financing a record national debt of 286 billion dollars. That it is having problems is not surprising.

Self-Reliance Seen Replaced By 'Security'

Employees, Business Both Keep Eye Open For Future Benefits

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — What ever became of self-reliance?

It used to be the mark of most Americans. They took care of themselves, their families — young and old — and their own futures. They went to work with the idea of getting ahead, maybe dreaming of being their own boss, risky as that might be.

Now the emphasis seems to have swung to something called security.

Many employers complain that when they interview a job applicant today the talk switches at once to what kind of a pension plan the company has. The job seeker mentally figures how that will supplement the social security he'll collect from the government.

The would-be employee also asks about the company's policies on severance pay and unemployment benefits, health insurance, sick pay and many other fringe benefits.

But business itself is just as busy chasing security.

Government subsidies aimed at insuring the security of various groups or industries take many forms.

There is the familiar cry of the railroads that the airlines benefit from postal subsidies and from use of airport facilities built at taxpayers' expense; and that trucks use highways also provided by tax money.

Security on the farm is a political issue. The farmer can't be made secure from the weather's onslaughts — droughts, floods, dust storms. But in many cases he can be sure that the price of what he does raise will be supported by the government, and that in some cases he'll be paid by the soil bank for NOT raising anything.

Industry turns to government for many kinds of security against the perils of foreign, or even domestic, competition. Government stockpiling has been used to furnish markets for, and support prices of, various metals and other materials.

Small business looks to government to make credit available on favorable terms and to watch constantly lest big business get too big — and to remember them particularly when government orders are handed out.

Playwright Maxwell Anderson Dies at 70 Following Stroke

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Playwright Maxwell Anderson saw the theater as a great force spreading light into the dark corners of human experience.

He took to writing plays late in life and then plunged into it as a "religious experience." He worked at it meticulously until a few days before he died.

Only a stroke stopped the flow from his pen. He was 70 when he died in Stamford hospital Saturday.

Anderson the man was interested in all the vital aspects of life. His eyes caught everything happening around him. His plays were a testimony to his breadth of knowledge.

Anderson, the newspaperman-playwright, spotlighted congressional log rolling in "Both Your Houses," which won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1933.

Anderson, the poet playwright, wrote 11 successful plays in verse. Anderson, the realist playwright, wrote the first American play, "What Price Glory?" with Lawrence Stallings in 1924, to show war as something beyond a setting for heroic deeds.

Anderson, the social-conscious playwright, wrote "Winterset." He called it a "serious indictment of the hysterical justice meted out in the Sacco-Vanetti trial."

Anderson, the romantic playwright, wrote the tender lyrics to the popular "September Song" — written 20 years ago for "Knickerbocker Holiday."

Anderson began as a teacher, drifted to newspaper writing, and came upon the theater quietly in 1923 with a play called "The White Desert." No one was enthusiastic. A year later "What Price Glory?" thundered onto Broadway and Anderson was able to devote full time to writing plays.

Anderson was married to Margaret Skettin in 1911. They had three sons — Alan, Terence and Quentin.

Mrs. Anderson died in 1931 and he married Gertrude Maynard — mother of a daughter, Hesper, by a former marriage — two years later. She died in 1933.

Anderson married Gilda Oakleaf in 1934. She and the sons survive. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Chapel of Columbia University in New York City. Eulogies will be delivered by author Mark Van Doren and playwright Robert Anderson, no relation.

FELL 17 STORIES—James Bell, 11, is wheeled into a hospital operating room in New York after a 17-story fall from his apartment home. Soggy ground let him off with broken wrists and elbows and internal injuries. Physicians termed him in critical condition and held little hope for his recovery. It was reported he went out the window to escape spanking.

Favorite Herb Roll Call For Logan Elm Garden Club

The Logan Elm Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Donald Miller, Route 1, with Mrs. Laura Wilkins assisting. Mrs. Wilkins read the meditation. Roll call was answered by naming our most Favorite Herb.

Mrs. Wayne Morris was welcomed as a new member of our club.

Mrs. Donald Miller read announcement about the Third Annual Central Ohio Garden and Flower Show which opens at noon February 28 and will continue each day through March 8 to be held in the Buckeye Building at Ohio State Fairgrounds. There will be flowers throughout to carry out the show theme of "Springtime in Ohio."

Mrs. Robert Bower read about the meeting to be held in Columbus in North Broadway Methodist Church on April 15 and the meeting to be held May 14 in Lancaster at Junior High School of which the Fairfield Garden Club will be hostess. Mrs. William A. Williams will be lecturer and give demonstrations on table settings.

The gift was brought by Miss Ruth McKenzie and won by Mrs. Pryor Harmount.

Plans were made to order more Logan Elm stationery to be sold by our club.

The program was presented by Miss Ruth McKenzie. An interesting talk on "Herbs and their Uses." Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie is to be hostess to next meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Cosmetics Chemists Finding Way To Ward Off Aging Skin

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Beauty Editor

This new scientific age holds out great prospects of discoveries to help keep us young. Some scientist aiming to find out secrets of the universe may stumble on that magic formula for eternal youth. But, in lieu of that miracle somewhere in the offing, we have made great strides in the world of cosmetics where chemists have engineered preparations to help ward off aging skin. One such discovery in recent years has been in the field of essential polyunsaturated fatty acids. These are found in certain fatty foods known to be essential to skin health for more than three decades. Experiments by biochemists proved, however, that maturing women do not assimilate fatty foods the way younger girls do. Then, too, older women on diets have a tendency to minimize their intake of fatty foods.

The first polyunsaturated creams hit the market many years ago, and it was hoped that these creams would supply the vital fatty acids lacking in the skin. New creams claiming to have solved the problem of polyunsaturates are touted as compensating creams, supplying skin essentials that may be insufficient in the diet.

Scientific talk is that the new polyunsaturated creams may be used effectively on either dry or oily skin since the formula is devised to correct skin imbalance. How is this new cream used? It may be worn overnight, good skin protection during the winter months.

It may be used under daytime makeup, by coating the skin with a thin film of the cream before using foundation cream. The cream is absorbed into the skin in a jiffy, so that there is no problem in applying foundation cream over it or fear of staining pillows if it is worn at night.

One good use for this type of cream is at the throat. It should be ideally suited to the baggy or crepey throat, and other facial areas that have a tendency to sag as we grow older.

Fancy-up your croutons by cutting bread with small cookie cutters; make "almond" shapes by cutting a round and then (with the round cutter) making elliptical shaped pieces around the edge.

Finale Near In Collegiate Cage Season

Last Week Looming In Regular Play; 42 Tourney Berths Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
College basketball goes into the final week of the regular season today with 42 teams needed to fill the brackets in the four major post season tournaments.

There are 12 spots left for the big boys—eight in the NCAA 23-team university division and four in the 12-team National Invitation Tournament starting March 12 at New York's Madison Square Garden.

The NCAA also has four unfiled brackets for its 32-team small college championship, winding up with the eight regional winners meeting at Evansville, Ind., March 11-13. Games Monday and Tuesday will complete the field.

The NAIA, which brings together 32 small college teams in a week-long tourney starting in Kansas City March 16, still has 26 spots open. They will be filled in playoffs this week. Tennessee A&I, winner the last two years, already has accepted an invitation.

Here is how the NCAA major championship shapes up in the four regions, from which will come the winners for the championship semifinals and finals at Louisville March 20-21:

EASTERN—West Virginia, winner of the Southern Conference Tournament for the fifth straight year; St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, best in the Middle Atlantic Conference, and Navy, an at-large entry, are in.

Still to be named are winners of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament starting at Raleigh, N.C. Thursday, the Ivy League and Yankee Conference representatives and an at-large team. Princeton and Dartmouth are tied for the Ivy lead at 12-1 and will meet in a playoff if they both win their final games this week. Connecticut has clinched at least a tie in the Yankee Conference.

MIDWEST—Eastern Kentucky of the Ohio Valley Conference; Kentucky, named SEC representative when conference winner Mississippi State declined because it doesn't play against Negroes; Michigan State, champion of the Big Ten and Marquette and Louisville, at-large entries, have qualified. Selection of the Mid-American representative will complete the bracket. Miami of Ohio leads with 9-2. Bowling Green is second with 9-3.

MIDWEST—Complete except for Missouri Valley representative and Cincinnati (11-0) can clinch a tie by beating North Texas State tonight, with contenders Bradley (10-2) and St. Louis (9-3) still to be played. Other brackets filled by Texas Christian, Southwest Conference winner; Kansas State, Big Eight titlist with a 22-1 overall mark, and two at-large selections—Portland (Ore.) and DePaul.

FAR WEST—Only Idaho State and St. Mary's (Calif.) are definite. Border Conference is tied with Texas Western and New Mexico State each 7-2. They wind up the season tonight. California (13-2) clinched at least a tie in the Pacific Coast Conference by beating Washington State 65-45 Saturday. Utah (11-1) has a one-game edge over Denver (10-2) in the Skyline. Each has two games remaining—Friday and Saturday.

In the NIT fold are four New York teams—New York University, Manhattan, St. John's and Fordham—St. Bonaventure, Villanova, Oklahoma City and Providence. Three of the remaining spots are expected to be filled by the second and third teams in the Missouri Valley and the runner-up in the Skyline. No. 12 still is up for grabs.

Five teams were added to the NCAA small college field over the week end. They were Buffalo, Williams, American University, Lincoln (Mo.) and Los Angeles State. Two more will be added tonight from the winner of the Adelphi-Fairleigh Dickinson game at South Orange, N.J. and an at-large selection. Tuesday Drexel and Hofstra meet on the latter's court for a spot and another will go to the winner of the Ohio Athletic Conference, which will be either Akron or Wittenburg. In event of a tie they will draw lots.

Spartans Collect Big Ten Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The main event, Michigan State's Big Ten title-clinching victory, is basketball history today as a half-dozen other teams plunge into the battle for the conference runner-up spot.

The powerful Spartans, now ranked No. 8 in the National Associated Press poll, won like true champions. MSU defeated defending champion Indiana 86-82 Saturday in Bloomington, Ind.—previously a Spartan graveyard.

The victory, the Spartans' first after eight straight losses in Bloomington, boosted MSU to a 10-2 conference mark.

Another reward for Coach Fordy Anderson's five was a trip to the NCAA eastern regionals in Evanston, Ill., March 13-14.

Darby Trojans Face Stern Test with Jacktown Five

The pride and sole cage representative of Pickaway County will face a highly touted Lynwood-Jacktown team tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the semifinals of the central Ohio Class A District Tournament being held at Otterbein College, Westerville.

Darby lays its 21-1 record on the line to 18-4 Jacktown from Licking County. The county's two other entries, Williamsport and Scioto, both fell before the onslaught of Licking County representatives.

Deercreek absorbed a 65-40 defeat at the hands of Licking Heights and Scioto was trounced 71-51 by Granville.

Licking Heights meets Fairfield County's Pickerington at 8:20 p. m. tomorrow following the Darby contest. Granville fell out of contention when it lost a heart-breaking thriller to Picktown, 52-51, Friday.

THE TROJANS have beaten Jacktown once this year, 70-66 on the Lynwood floor. This battle of top notch teams saw the Trojans battle Jacktown without the services of John Drummond who played less than a half due to an accumulation of fouls.

Darby's Lynn Sheets replaced Drummond and played his best game of the year. Drummond fouled trying to halt the rebounding and hook shooting of Jacktown's 6-6 Holman.

This fray will be the tie-breaker in the series. In last year's district at Capital, Lynwood blasted the Trojans, who were playing in their first district in many years and were naturally scared.

This year Darby has battle-tested veterans to face the potent Licking Countians and neither team will have an easy time gaining the district finals.

The Trojans will dress five of the most consistent scorers ever to represent Pickaway County. Drummond rests with a 12.9 average; Dave Musselman, 12.3; Tommy Walters, 16.6; Tommy Liff, 14.1, and Alvin Cox, 9.5.

Many times this year, Darby has had all five players in double figures, especially Thursday night when it trounced Columbus St. Marys, 67-55.

WITH THE return of Gary Wardell to the line-up after the entire season's absence with a broken arm, the Trojans spirit has risen, and attitude is at season peak.

Wardell, a starter last season at guard, represents that valuable sixth man support that has certainly been needed during the year.

Jacktown features "race horse" ball and will utilize the fast break if Holman is not stopped on the bankboards. Darby will counter with a deadly shooting of Walters, Liff and Cox.

IF JACKTOWN pulls out its defense to halt the Trojans' back court thrust, Darby's Drummond and Musselman will rack the nets with ease.

Jacktown has some impressive victories under its belt. It has defeated such teams as Newark St. Francis, Pleasantville, Licking Heights and Granville.

Both teams have won over Jonathan Alder. Darby edged the fighting Madison Countians during the year, 42-39, while Jacktown ran them off the court in its opening district game, 86-67.

Winner of tomorrow's semifinal fray will face the bottom bracket winner of the Marion half of the central district.

Greencamp, (17-5), upset victors over Newark Catholic, 44-42, meets Prospect (18-3) in this playoff.

The Picktown (21-1) - Licking Heights (16-6) winner will face the winner of the Ridgeville (22-3) - Fredericktown (15-7) game. Both winners of the finals will be in regional play.

This is the first time since Williamsport went to the regionals, that the county has had a team this far. Darby will be out to better Ashville's state final slot in the middle 40's.

"We should all have one common objective," declared the fiery Lane. "That is to do everything in our power — on the field, of course — to prevent the Yankees from winning again."

"I feel we can do it," he added, "if we get together and make up our minds to throw only the best pitchers against the Yankees. If we all concentrate on that I'm willing to bet this season will be remembered as the year the Yankees did not win the pennant."

"The trouble with some of the other clubs is that they have draped a cloak of invincibility over the Yankees. We must destroy this illusion. The Yankees are good but they are not an outstanding club by any means. They are benefiting from a certain momentum, a carryover from previous winning clubs."

Lane's latest blast at the Yankees came in the nature of a parting shot. A St. Petersburg, Fla., resident, he left immediately for the Indians' training camp at Tucson, Ariz.

"The Yankees wouldn't have won last year if Bob Turley and Ryne Duren hadn't come through," Lane said. "And Duren was a distinct surprise. They certainly didn't win because of their hitting."

The Chicago Cubs failed to hit a grand slam homer in 1958 but the team led the National League in four baggers with 182.

The Cardinals and Cubs won 72 games each last season but the Red Birds beat Chicago 15 games to 7 in the season series.

John McMullin, Fair Oaks, Calif., who led the first two days, finished with rounds of 75 and 72 for 285 and third money.

Finale Near In Collegiate Cage Season

Last Week Looming In Regular Play; 42 Tourney Berths Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College basketball goes into the final week of the regular season today with 42 teams needed to fill the brackets in the four major post season tournaments.

There are 12 spots left for the big boys—eight in the NCAA 23-team university division and four in the 12-team National Invitation Tournament starting March 12 at New York's Madison Square Garden.

The NCAA also has four unfilled brackets for its 32-team small college championship, winding up with the eight regional winners meeting at Evansville, Ind., March 11-13. Games Monday and Tuesday will complete the field.

The NAIA, which brings together 32 small college teams in a week-long tourney starting in Kansas City March 16, still has 26 spots open. They will be filled in playoffs this week. Tennessee A&I, winner the last two years, already has accepted an invitation.

Here is how the NCAA major championship shapes up in the four regions, from which will come the winners for the championship semifinals and finals at Louisville March 20-21:

EASTERN—West Virginia, winner of the Southern Conference Tournament for the fifth straight year; St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, best in the Middle Atlantic Conference, and Navy, an at-large entry, are in.

Still to be named are winners of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament starting at Raleigh, N.C. Thursday, the Ivy League and Yankee Conference representatives and an at-large team. Princeton and Dartmouth are tied for the Ivy lead at 12-1 and will meet in a playoff if they both win their final games this week. Connecticut has clinched at least a tie in the Yankee Conference.

MIDWEST—Eastern Kentucky of the Ohio Valley Conference; Kentucky, named SEC representative when conference winner Mississippi State declined because it doesn't play against Negroes; Michigan State, champion of the Big Ten and Marquette and Louisville, at-large entries, have qualified. Selection of the Mid-American representative will complete the bracket. Miami of Ohio leads with 9-2. Bowling Green is second with 9-3.

MIDWEST — Complete except for Missouri Valley representative and Cincinnati (11-0) can clinch a tie by beating North Texas State tonight, with contenders Bradley (10-2) and St. Louis (9-3) still to be played. Other brackets filled by Texas Christian, Southwest Conference winner; Kansas State, Big Eight titlist with a 22-1 overall mark, and two at-large selections—Portland (Ore.) and DePaul.

FAR WEST—Only Idaho State and St. Mary's (Calif.) are definite. Border Conference is tied with Texas Western and New Mexico State each 7-2. They wind up the season tonight. California (13-2) clinched at least a tie in the Pacific Coast Conference by beating Washington State 65-45 Saturday. Utah (11-1) has a one-game edge over Denver (10-2) in the Skyline. Each has two games remaining—Friday and Saturday.

In the NIT fold are four New York teams — New York University, Manhattan, St. John's and Fordham—St. Bonaventure, Villanova, Oklahoma City and Providence. Three of the remaining spots are expected to be filled by the second and third teams in the Missouri Valley and the runner-up in the Skyline. No. 12 still is up for grabs.

Five teams were added to the NCAA small college field over the week end. They were Buffalo, Williams, American University, Lincoln (Mo.) and Los Angeles State. Two more will be added tonight from the winner of the Adelphi-Fairleigh Dickinson game at South Orange, N.J. and an at-large selection. Tuesday Drexel and Hofstra meet on the latter's court for a spot and another team will go to the winner of the Ohio Athletic Conference, which will be either Akron or Wittenburg. In event of a tie they will draw lots.

Spartans Collect Big Ten Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The main event, Michigan State's Big Ten title-clinching victory, is basketball history today as a half-dozen other teams plunge into the battle for the conference runner-up spot.

The powerful Spartans, now ranked No. 8 in the National Associated Press poll, won like true champions. MSU defeated defending champion Indiana 86-82 Saturday in Bloomington, Ind.—previously a Spartan graveyard.

The victory, the Spartans' first after eight straight losses in Bloomington, boosted MSU to a 10-2 conference mark. Another reward for Coach Fordy Anderson's five was a trip to the NCAA eastern regionals in Evanston, Ill., March 13-14.

Darby Trojans Face Stern Test with Jacktown Five

The pride and sole cage representative of Pickaway County will face a highly touted Lynwood-Jacksontown tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the semifinals of the central Ohio Class A District Tournament being held at Otterbein College, Westerville.

Darby lays its 21-1 record on the line to 18-4 Jacktown from Licking County. The county's two other entries, Williamsport and Scioto, both fell before the onslaught of Licking County representatives.

Deercreek absorbed a 65-40 defeat at the hands of Licking Heights and Scioto was trounced 71-51 by Granville.

Licking Heights meets Fairfield County's Pickerington at 8:20 p. m. tomorrow following the Darby contest. Granville fell out of contention when it lost a heart-breaking thriller to Jacktown, 52-51, Friday.

Titanium Earns Second Place

Ralph Wallace's Titanium earned second place in amateur shooting dog competition yesterday at the Fairfield County Bird Dog Club. The Lancaster event included 21 entries.

First prize went to Ken's Direct Driver, a pointer owned by Ken Honecker of Findlay. Third place was awarded to Ranger's Buckeye Bess, another Findlay dog owned by Howard Clinger.

Wallace said Titanium's next competition is slated Saturday and Sunday at Athens in a Hocking Valley Sportsmen's Assn. meeting.

Kramer Says He's No Fierce Tennis Tyrant

NEW YORK (AP)—Professional tennis moneyman Jack Kramer wants it known that he is no whipping tyrant as Pancho Gonzales would have you believe.

"In fact," said Kramer today as he got ready to take his troupe to Montreal, "Pancho and I are on very good terms right now."

But isn't Gonzales supposed to be at constant odds with the boss man? And now that he's not going to make as much money this year as last, would he be in an extra sullen mood?

"Let me tell you something," said Kramer, one-time king of the pros himself. "Once Pancho makes up his mind to something, he goes along all the way."

"But once he saw the long range money in it for him, plus the fact that his advisers pointed out numerous other advantages he decided to go along."

This year, instead of the regular two-man tour, Kramer is running sort of a round-robin with $1,500 in the pot every night. The winners get the major share, of course.

"Pancho liked the idea of playing one guy all the time, because he thinks he can beat any one," Kramer continued. "But this way is more progressive."

Johnson Sees Steady Play Win Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Husky Howie Johnson's philosophy of taking golf one hole at a time paid off in the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Tournament.

He was five strokes off the pace Sunday when he began the "tough 36-hole grind, made necessary when rain delayed the start of the tournament one day."

After 18 holes, Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., who shot a 68, still held a four-stroke edge on the 33-year-old San Marcos, Calif., professional, who marked up a two-under-par 70.

But on the final round, while the top men ran into trouble, Johnson calmly added his second 70 for 283 and a one-stroke victory over Hebert, who soared to 75.

The 283 total was the highest winning score in the eight-year history of the tournament, but not surprising since three days of rain preceded the tournament, soaking the 4,677-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course with three inches of water.

It was only Johnson's second PGA victory in almost three years as a professional.

John McMullin, Fair Oaks, Calif., who led the first two days, finished with rounds of 75 and 72 for 285 and third money.

Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., and Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla., tied for fourth at 286. Harney recorded 72 and 74 while Ford was even par 72 both times.

Defending champion Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., who won last year by a record four strokes with 276, finished in a tie for 26th place at 292.

Fans Mourn Passing of Albie Booth

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's sports fans today mourned Albert (Albie) Booth — the man who emulated heroic fiction with his athletic feats at Yale.

The former football star, who was 51, died of a heart attack early Sunday morning after attending a Broadway play with his wife.

Booth was the second Yale football great to die within two weeks. Bruce Caldwell, who preceded Booth at the New Haven, Conn. school, died Feb. 15 after a long illness. He was 53.

Booth was still a well known figure to football fans. He was one of the country's top football officials and officiated at such classics as the Army-Navy game.

Booth managed an ice cream company in New Haven. He is survived by his wife, Marion, and two daughters. He was a resident of Hamden, Conn., a New Haven suburb.

Booth ruled the athletic scene at Yale from 1929-31. He played football, basketball and baseball, winning eight varsity letters and enshrining himself as the greatest of Yale's athletes.

Vernon Hopping For World Series

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Mickey Vernon, over 40 and frisky, still has hopes of appearing in a World Series before he ends his baseball career.

The slim first baseman, who swung a powerful bat for the Cleveland Indians last year, lists the world series hopes among four goals he wants to attain before hanging up his spikes. And he expects to have at least two more seasons in which to see his hopes realized.

He wants to reach the 2,500 mark in hits, become a 20-year man and play baseball in four decades.

Oldest "exercise boy" at Hialeah this winter is Bene Pope, 70.

Kingston Finishes Season With 8 Wins and 13 Losses

The Kingston Redskins finished the 1958-59 basketball season with eight victories against 13 defeats, two games better than last year's 6-13 record.

A much improved Kingston unit tossed 1,236 points through the hoops during this season's basketball wars. Its opponents dunked 1,289 points. Kingston averaged 58.95 points per game against its opposition's 61.33.

Leading rebounder was Gene Sims, 5-11 senior, with 197 to his credit. Emory Carper was leading scorer with 242 points on 94 field goals and 54 free throws.

Carper, the Redskins hot and cold miniature guard, was tied in field goals by Captain Bob Williams and in charity tosses by Sims and Dave Nogle.

TOP FIELD goal average was made by Bill Carman with 57 of 124 attempts for 45.9 per cent. He was followed by Sims, 43.6; Tom Edwards, 43.5; Carper, 40.3; Nogle, 36.5, and Williams, 35.6.

No. 1 free throw artist was Sims with 54 of 80 attempts for 67.8 per cent.

WITH THE return of Gary Wardell to the line-up after the entire season's absence with a broken arm, the Trojans spirit has risen, and attitude is at season peak.

Wardell, a starter last season at guard, represents that valuable sixth man support that has certainly been needed during the year.

Jacktown features "race horse" ball and will utilize the fast break if Holman is not stopped on the bankboards. Darby will counter with the deadly shooting of Walters, Liff and Cox.

IF JACKTOWN pulls out its defense to halt the Trojans' back court threat, Darby's Drummond and Musselman will rack the nets with ease.

Jacktown has some impressive victories under its belt. It has defeated such teams as Newark St. Francis, Pleasantville, Licking Heights and Granville.

Both teams have won over Jonathan Alder. Darby edged the fighting Madison Countians during the year, 42-39, while Jacktown ran them off the court in its opening district game, 86-67.

Winner of tomorrow's semi-final fray will face the bottom bracket winner of the Marion half of the central district.

Greencamp, (17-5), upset victors over Newark Catholic, 44-42, meets Prospect (18-3) in this playoff.

The Picktown (21-1) - Licking Heights (16-6) winner will face the winner of the Ridgedale (22-3) - Fredericktown (15-7) game. Both winners of the finals will be in regional play.

This is the first time since Williamsport went to the regionals, that the county has had a team this far. Darby will be out to better Ashville's state final slot in the middle 40's.

Lane Calls For All-Out War on Yanks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Frank Lane, blunt-spoken general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has made a frank exhortation to the other American League clubs to join him in all-out warfare against the New York Yankees.

"We should all have one common objective," declared the fiery Lane. "That is to do everything in our power — on the field, of course — to prevent the Yankees from winning again."

"I feel we can do it," he added, "if we get together and make up our minds to throw only the best pitchers against the Yankees. If we all concentrate on that I'm willing to bet this season will be remembered as the year the Yankees did not win the pennant."

"The trouble with some of the other clubs is that they have draped a cloak of invincibility over the Yankees. We must destroy this illusion. The Yankees are good but they are not an outstanding club by any means. They are benefitting from a certain momentum, a carryover from previous winning clubs."

Lane's latest blast at the Yankees came in the nature of a parting shot. A St. Petersburg, Fla., resident, he left immediately for the Indians' training camp at Tucson, Ariz.

"The Yankees wouldn't have won last year if Bob Turley and Ryne Duren hadn't come through," Lane said. "And Duren was a distinct surprise. They certainly didn't win because of their hitting."

The Chicago Cubs failed to hit a grand slam homer in 1958 but the team led the National League in four baggers with 182.

The Cardinals and Cubs won 72 games each last season but the Red Birds beat Chicago 15 games to 7 in the season series.

Aging Rookie May Make Grade With Washington Senators

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor
ORLANDO, Fla. — They don't call him "Old Dan" Tucker but perhaps they should. For Len Tucker, a raw rookie with the Washington Senators, is approaching his 29th birthday and just now is giving it a real try to make the major leagues.

Len has never been in a major league ball park and never has seen a major league game except on television. However, considering the status of the Washington Senators, he may finally make it.

When he reported for practice here, he looked like a raw recruit with his fielding, bobbling one ball after another. However he can hit and he can run and he may get by on that.

A big fellow, a college man seeking to gain more credits so he can teach when his baseball-playing days are over, Tucker comes up to the Senators as an outfielder-first baseman with a fine minor league record behind him, highlighted by a .400 batting average in one league and base-path speed which resulted in 49 stolen bases one year.

His last employment, in 1958, was with Poza Rica in the Mexican league, where he hit .328 and belted out 21 homers.

Tucker is actually listed on the Washington farm club roster but is being given a thorough trial here, his first in the majors.

Leonard Tucker was born at Mounds, Ill., the son of a laborer. In Douglas high he was a track and basketball star. By the time he enrolled at Southern Illinois university he could run the hundred in 9.8 and high jump 6 feet 3 inches.

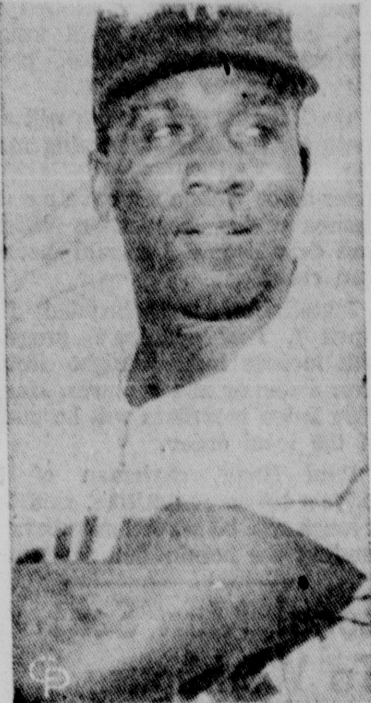

He went into the Air Force in 1947 and stayed on for four years, playing basketball with the Lackland, Tex., AFB. It was through this that he went to Denver to compete in the all-series cage championship and while there was introduced to go to California to enter school.

Len went to Visalia Junior college, then transferred to Fresno State on a basketball scholarship. While at Fresno he played baseball alongside Truman Clevenger, now a pitcher with the Senators.

The St. Louis Cardinals spotted him and signed him in 1953 for a $4,000 bonus. He spent his first pro year with Fresno where he hit .285. Then he went to Peoria, Alton, back to Peoria, and finally Pampa, Tex., in 1956. It was at Pampa that he hit .404 and belted 51 home runs.

Tucker dropped out of the Cardinals' chain, played ball in a semi-pro league and finally in a pro league in Canada. Last year he again played in the Mexican league where he was sold to the Senators.

Len said he would rather play the outfield but if he makes the Senators he'll "play anywhere."

They Enjoy Being Suckers

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine has had four husbands and she isn't even 40 yet. She has a boyfriend for everything. One pays her rent. Another one lets her drive his car. Another painted and papered her house (material and labor) and she bragged that all she had to give him was lunch and a few daughterly kisses. She sees the rent-payer during the day time and she has a busdriver (she calls him her "roomer") staying there nights. I don't know how she gets away with it. Don't you think somebody ought to tell those suckers the score?

NEIGHBOR: Don't waste any sympathy on the "suckers." Some men don't care about the score as long as they're in the game.

DEAR ABBY: How do you find out a boy's religion without embarrassing either of us? I am not allowed to go with boys of a different religion and I have a terrible time finding out sometimes whether I should even start to like him.

DEAR PUZZLED: If you are interested in a boy there is nothing wrong with asking him what church he goes to.

DEAR ABBY: I am 69 years old and my wife is 65. Over a year ago my accountant advised me to apply for Social Security. I took his advice and draw $103. per month. I advised my wife to do the same, but she refuses. Her reason is that we have enough income to keep us and it is not honest to take this money from the government when we do not need it. We are honest. God fearing people and do not want to do wrong. Please advise in your column.

DEAR GEORGE: There's nothing dishonest in accepting Social Security. Eligibility depends on one's age, not one's degree of necessity. If it's George with Uncle Sam, it should be George with George's wife.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I went over to my mother's house. While we were there my sister and her fiancé and my wife and I started a card game. My sister and her fiancé got into a little argument and he slapped her face. I didn't touch him up. I just told him what I thought of him and he left. My wife and I have had a lot of fights over this. She thinks I was wrong for butting in. But I felt as long as he wasn't her husband yet, he had no right to slap her face. Who was right?

DEAR ERNIE: You were right to voice your disapproval—and by the way, a slap in the face between lawful-wedded mates is no more acceptable than a slap in the face between lovers. (These are lovers?)

CONFIDENTIAL TO PEARL: Kill her with kindness and don't let your conscience bother you. A cat has nine lives.

Pickaway Livestock Gets Own 'Air Curtain'

CATTLE AIR CURTAIN — The Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Assn. has a new "air curtain" in its sales arena. Installed by Haning's, the air curtain keeps the arena comfortable despite the traffic through huge doors leading to the area. The system is unique in livestock sales arenas.

They said there was no way to heat a cattle sales arena during severe cold winter weather.

Bill Dixon, manager of Haning's, local heating and air conditioning dealer, recently completed an unusual heating installation at the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Assn.

Although there were two suspended gas unit heaters installed in the sales arena it was a difficult place to heat in near zero weather. At times it was hard to continue operation due to the severe cold.

During the course of a sale, cattle are continuously led through one large door and led out another equally large door. Each time the door is opened, a blast of frigid air would enter the arena causing discomfort to the cattle buyers and others attending the sale.

Haning's have been installing heating systems for about 35 years, but they never have been called upon to heat as difficult a space as this sales arena.

IT WAS decided a method would be tried similar to a heated curtain wall used in the entrances to some of the larger department stores.

The system employs the use of a horizontal unit heater with a centrifugal blower. The unit is suspended about 15 feet above the sales arena floor with supply duct work which runs to the warm air diffusers that cover the entire width of each doorway.

The diffusers were designed by Southwestern Ohio EUB Leader Offered Pulpit

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Philip- pus United Church of Christ of Cincinnati has issued a call for the Rev. Clarence K. Gebhart of Ham- ilton to become its senior pastor. The Rev. Gebhart is president of the Southwestern Ohio Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. He has been synod president since 1955.

Coast Guard Probes Cause Of Collision

NEW YORK (AP)—Coast Guard investigators today were trying to find the cause of a collision between the American Export luxury liner Constitution and the Nor- wegian oil tanker Jalanta.

The bow of the tanker was sheared off but remained afloat. The liner received a gash in her bow about 8 feet above the water line, 40 feet long and 15 feet wide. Both ships made port without help after the collision Sunday outside New York harbor.

The accident occurred in a dense fog, shortly before 11 a.m., at a crossing of the sea lanes five miles southeast of Ambrose Light. Each ship had just completed an overhaul. The tanker which car- ried no cargo, had a crew of 42. The 30,000-ton liner carried a crew of 112 and 29 technicians, and had no passengers.

The Constitution was built in Quincy, Mass., in 1951 at a cost of 25 million dollars. She was re- turning from a multimillion-dollar conversion job at Newport News, Va.
